

2016 Community College Master Teacher Institute

Global Tourism: A Multidisciplinary Perspective

The United Nations (UN) General Assembly declares 2017 as the International Year of Sustainable Tourism for Development

The resolution, adopted on December 4, 2015, acknowledges “the importance of international tourism, and particularly of the designation of an international year of sustainable tourism for development, in fostering better understanding among peoples everywhere, in leading to a greater awareness of the rich heritage of various civilizations and in bringing about a better appreciation of the inherent values of different cultures, thereby contributing to the strengthening of peace in the world”. <http://media.unwto.org/press-release/2015-12-07/united-nations-declares-2017-international-year-sustainable-tourism-develop>

In recognition of this designation, please join us for a two day curriculum development workshop on tourism, globalization, communities, and sustainability. Learn how to incorporate these topics into your existing curricula, develop activities to bring back to the classroom, and connect with colleagues. We will examine global tourism and the tourism industry today through the disciplinary perspectives of economics, anthropology, environmental studies, business, geography, cultural studies, sociology, and other frameworks.

Dates: July 14 - 15, 2016 (Thursday and Friday)

Time: 8:30 AM – 9:00 AM Registration (Thursday)
9:00 AM – 4:00 PM Workshop
9:00 AM – 4:00 PM Workshop (Friday)

Location: University of Washington, Seattle campus

This institute will bring together community college educators interested in networking with their peers and incorporating new information on international studies into their teaching and mentoring. Community college faculty from all disciplines, especially including STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math), are encouraged to apply. University of Washington and community college faculty, practitioners, and graduate students will lead this two day workshop.

We expect lively discussions and informative lectures. Community college educators will be paid a stipend of $150.00 if they are selected to participate and attend all two days of the workshop. This workshop does not include clock hours. Travel stipends will be available for those coming from east of the Cascades and outside of Washington State.

Applications are due on or before June 13, 2016. Applicants will be notified by June 24, 2016 if they have been accepted into the program.

To apply click here: <https://catalyst.uw.edu/webq/survey/tleonard/303776>

Sponsored by the National Resource Centers of the Henry M. Jackson School of International Studies - University of Washington, Northwest International Education Association, Global Business Center at the Michael G. Foster School of Business - University of Washington, University of Wisconsin, and funded by the United States Department of Education.

For more information, please contact Tamara Leonard at tleonard@uw.edu.